

Foreign Language Requirement or Multicultural Courses

There are two separate issues with regard to foreign languages. In order to be admitted to the University, the State of Florida requires two years of high school foreign language (or the equivalent). This is called the "Foreign Language Admission Requirement." In some cases, students who did not complete two years of foreign language in high school are provisionally admitted but they must satisfy the requirement before graduation.

Foreign Language Graduation Requirement: All undergraduates must demonstrate proficiency in a testable foreign language (see UCF catalog for the definition of "testable") equivalent to successful completion of one year at the college level. Students may also satisfy this requirement by successfully completing the equivalent course work. Non-testable languages may meet the requirement by proper documentation to the Office of Undergraduate Studies.

Computer Science students who satisfied the Foreign Language Admission Requirement may satisfy the Foreign Language Graduation Requirement by taking one course (at least three credits) from those offered in foreign languages or the approved list of multicultural courses below.

The multicultural courses include:

AFA 3102, Black Perspectives: A Multidisciplinary Approach

AFA 3104, The African American Experience

ANT 3212, Peoples of the World

ANT 3273, Law and Culture

ANT 3311, Indians of the Southeastern United States

ANT 3313, Indians of North America High Plains

ANT 3363, Anthropology of Japan

ANT 3541, Biobehavioral Anthropology

ANT 3610, Language and Culture

ASH 4404, China in 19th and 20th Centuries

ASH 4442, Modern Japan, 19th and 20th Centuries

COM 4461, Intercultural Communication

CPO 3034, Politics of Developing Areas

CPO 3103, Comparative Politics

CPO 4303, Comparative Latin American Politics

CPO 4643, Government and Politics of Russia

GEO 3471, World Political Geography

INR 2002, International Relations-Theory and Practice

INR 4035, International Political Economy

INR 4102, American Foreign Policy

INR 4224, Contemporary International Politics of Asia

INR 4243, International Politics of Latin America

INR 4401, International Law I

INR 4402, International Law II

REL 3333, Hinduism

REL 3363, Islam

Those who have not yet satisfied the Foreign Language Admission Requirement should complete 2 semesters of a single foreign language at college level. This simultaneously satisfies both requirements.